

I listen to K-Love's national broadcast and the LPFM bill would disproportionately favor small local broadcasters providing a narrow viewpoint, locally oriented program. This would affect our listening options as, being close to the Bay Area, we often already get overlap from stronger signals. If local signals were to proliferate, these would cover the only K-Love signal we can receive. K-Love provides an awesome ministry to this area, provides live, on-air performances by nationally recognized christian artists that would not be provided under LPFM and broadcasts wholesome content that is deperately needed. Based on what I hear from other "shock" and "sexual inuendo" humor broqadcast from other local stations, it is imperative that this bill not infringe upon the rights and legacy of currently existing FM signals.
